in the case.

The senator stated that he had nothing The senator stated that he and nothing to say as to politics and his campalign for re-election, and that he was too busy to think of or discuss anything else but the business before Congress at this time. "We are in the midst of a short session, and it is crowded with work, and everybody is busy trying to dispose of some of this mass of business.

Senator Martin stated last night that he Senator Martin stated last night that he was heartily in favor of a measure conferring the rate-making power on the Interstate Commerce Commission. While he was not certain that there would be a rate regulation bill got through the Senate at this session, he had come to believe it was the intention of the Republicans to force such a measure through the House, and to try get it through the Senate at the present session.

"I do not know of any Democratic senator who will oppose the bill, it it does what it professes to do, and gives the Interstate Commerce Commission the authority to regulate rates, by giving it the power to name a rate," said the senator. "If there is opposition or obstruction it will have to come from Restruction it will have to come from Re publicans, and I have said as much to Republican senators."

Doesn't Favor a Court.

Senator Martin has all along taken a keen interest in the efforts being made to enact rate lesislation, and it is not unlikely that he will offer some important amendments to the bill which the Republicans will introduce, provided it is of the character which has been outlined was opposed to the creation of a special was opposed to the creation of a special court for the purpose of hearing appeals from the decisions of the Interstute Commerce Commission. He thinks that a court created for the purpose of hearing rate cases exclusively would be inclined to render decisions in accordance with applications of them.

to render decisions in accordance with what the public expected of them. Senator Martin is also inclined to think that the injuristate Commerce Commission should be larger, composed of probably time members, and that these should be appointed from different sections of the country, and not taken indiscriminately so that the majority could come from one section of the country. In fact, the senator went even further, and suggested the supdivision of the United States into districts for commissioners, so that each the supdivision of the United States into districts for commissioners, so that each district so constituted should be entitled to a member of the commission.

He expressed himself in favor of appeals from decisions of the commission to the regular circuit courts of the United States, and from these to the circuit court of appeals and the United States. Supreme Court, in certain cases. His plan would provide that if the commission decided a case its decision should be made operative from the j date it was rendered until reversed by the courts. In other words, an appeal from the commission to the courts should not stay the mission to the courts should not stay the operation of the commission's decision, but that it should become operative and

Still in the Woods.

Still in the Woods.

Asked as to the statement attributed to him that the Jamestown terepartenary bill was now in botter shape and better prospects than ever before, the senator corroborated that publication, stating that he and Senator Daniel had recently gone to see Representative Tawney in the interest of the measure. "It is not out of the woods yet," added the senator.

Asked as to the prospect of an additional appropriation for a nublic building for Richmond at this session, the senator stated that there was small chance of getting any additional appropriation at the short session. Every effort is being made by the majority to keep down appropriations, which have already reached an unusual figure.

Romance of Lieutenant Cartmell, of Virginia, Ends in Wedlock.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WINCHESTER, VA., Jan. 19.—A brief but romantic courtship ended in Washington yesterday, when Miss Anita T. Collins. of Nebraska, became the bride of First Lieutenant N. M. Cartmell, of the United States army, son of the late N. M. Cartmell, of Winchester, Rev. S. M. Newman officiating.

Lieutenant Cartmell was with Roosevelt in the charge up San Juan Hill in Cubs, and saw active service in the Philippines. He recently returned from the Far East, and was stationed in Nebraska, where he fell in love with the Leautiful Western girl who became his wife yesterday.

FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS

Bill to Provide for a Department of Immigration and Commissioner-No Bills Passed/

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RALDICHI, N. C., Jan. 19.—The two branches of the Legislature adjourned early to-day in honor of General Lee and Colonel M. F. Parker, but in the brief session some work was done.

In the Senate. Senator Scales introduced a very important bill to naming a board of control to establish industrial schools for youthful delinquents.

Two very large pelitions were presented in the House from Hichmond county, both claiming to represent a majority of the voters of that county, one asking for prohibition, and the other asking that the question be left to the vote of the county.

In the Senate, Ellington introduced a bill to incorporate the Nor'A Carolina Osteopathic Society, to regulate the practice of osteopathy, to provide examinations and itenses for applicants to practice. This will be strenuously opposed by the State Medical Society.

Moore introduced a bill to establish a department of emigration, and create the office of commissioner of emigration. The commissioner to be appointed for four years by the Governor, and research the office of enters and be core in the office of the state of the st tion. The commissioner to be appointed for four years by the Governor, and receive $1,000 salary and his clerk $1,000. In the House, Hutchinson offered a bill to adjust the freight charges by railroads and their liability for damage, etc. Redwine, to protect telephone communications by punishing wilful listeners, No action was taken on any bills.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RALEIGH N. C., Jan. 19.—The House Committee on Constitutional Amendments, after a lengthy session last night decided to report favorably Winborn's bill for the division of the public school funds between the races in proportion to the taxes paid. It provides that section 2 of article 9 of the Constitution of North 2 of article 2 of the Constitution of North Carolina shall be amended by striking out the words, "but there shall be no discrimination in tavor of or to the prejudice of either race" and substitute the following: "The General Assembly may permit either race to tax its polls and property for special school purposes for the race so taxed." "The amendment is, of course, if it passes the General Assembly to be submitted to a vote of the people at the next general election. This amendment will not affect the minimum four months' public school term for both races that is now guaranteed by the Constitution.

races that is now guaranteed by the Constitution.

The North Carolina Anti-Saloon League convened in annual session at moon to-day and will continue in session to-morrow, mapping out a campaign for the coming year, and approving or disapproving measures bearing on temperance that are now pending in the General Assembly. It is the general impression that Dr. Alexander's bill to fix saloon licenses the State over where saloons are allowed at $1.000, and regulating the hours for opening and closing at 6 A. M. to 8 P. M., will be approved. The report of Chairman J. W. Balley, of the Campaign Committee, will show that during the past two years the number of counties in which saloons are allowed has been reduced from fifty odd to less than twenty.

lifty odd to less than twenty.
Dr. A. J. McKelway addressed a large audience to-day at Tabernacle Baptist Church on the subject of child labor. A number of cotton mill and other factory men were present, and were much pleaned with the tone of the address. Dr. McKelway is secretary to the National Committee on Child Labor, and is interested just now in getting through the present Legislature a bill regulating child labor.

A DESPERATE WOMAN. Wife of a Policeman Fatally

Shoots Herself.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 19.—The wife of Patrolman Marqus Gray, of the Wilmington police force, shot and, perhaps fatally wounded herself to-day in an attempt to commit suicide. The woman used a thirty-two calibre revolver and directed the bullet into her left breast. She is not expected to recover.

Domestic trouble is said to be the cause of Mrs. Gray's desperate act.
